

MCSD “Bringing Learning to Bobcats” program will launch Tuesday

Marshalltown Community School District teachers, staff and administrators are working hard to prepare educational materials for Bobcat students in accordance with State of Iowa guidelines for continuous voluntary learning from home during the COVID-19 related school closure.

That effort will include a plethora of lessons, including digital learning activities for students; however, many students may also benefit from having similar learning materials in paper form. The “Bringing Learning to Bobcats” program will ensure educational packets are given to students to facilitate learning at home. The first packet drop-off will take place Tuesday, April 14, and subsequent packet drop-offs will take place weekly on Mondays.

Where and when to pick up packets

The packets will be available to PK-12 MCSD students and families at nine of the district building meal pick-up sites. The MLA site can pick up packets at Anson Elementary. Additionally, packets will be available at the “Meals Close to Home” mobile meal bus stops. Specifically, the packets will be available near a car, van, or SUV marked with Marshalltown Community School District identification. The smaller vehicles will park along with the school buses during regular meal drop-offs. Both the school meal sites and “Meals Close to Home” sites will have paper packets for all grades PK-12 so that families do not need to visit more than one school or site to help their children who are in more than one grade in MCSD. Packets have lessons for the whole week and do not need to be returned. If you miss the beginning of the week pick up, there will be extras at the school sites during the rest of the week.

The six bus routes delivering meals Monday-Friday and educational packets weekly are listed below
